AGENDA ITEM SUMMARY

NAME OF ITEM: Discussion with Huron Consulting Services Team

INITIATED BY: James Erwin, Chair of Ad Hoc Committee on Strategic Planning

BOARD INFORMATION: X

BOARD POLICY:

UNIFIED ACCREDITATION CONNECTION: n/a

BACKGROUND:

Huron Consulting Services Team will join the Ad Hoc Committee on Strategic Planning meeting on February 23rd for a discussion on the following items:

- Solicit feedback from the Ad Hoc Committee on preliminary communication strategy
- Review of information resources approach
- Review and analysis of each university’s strategic plan
Strategic Planning: Communications Plan

Outlined below is a series of Recommended Communications for the strategic planning process. Needless to say, we invite your review and refinement of these recommendations as we seek to ensure that the System's messaging efforts are focused, clear, and reflective of the communities that will be engaging with these communications. We have highlighted critical communications, the individual(s) proposed to distribute each communication, the timing, and the intended audience for the communications.

We recommend that the Chancellor send regular communications and for these communications to be followed-up by communications from each President. We also suggest that email communications direct stakeholders to the Strategic Planning website for additional information. The fourth page of this document provides guidelines for the Strategic Plan website.

Prior to providing a timeline of proposed communications, it is important to note one of our fundamental views about such efforts – namely, that an effective strategy communication is an ongoing process that should be embedded in formal and informal interactions and should continue beyond the end of the strategic planning process. To that end, we recommend the development and adoption of two distinct sets of “key messages” for UMS leaders to spearhead in communications. The first is a set of Key Messages to be used throughout the strategic planning process. The second is a set of Key Messages that the planning process will surface and that will ultimately take the form of something like an “elevator speech” to be used during the implementation of the strategic plan.

During the planning process, key messages should be used when discussing the strategic plan in recurring meetings and other key moments where diverse members of the community are convened (e.g., Annual Convocation, Inauguration of new leader). Below, we provide an example list of what these messages might be:

- Strive towards becoming a truly innovative public system
- Be student-centric in opportunity identification, prioritization, and implementation
- Base decisions on facts and the realities of the higher education market
- Be bold and willing to make tough decisions in order to invest in new initiatives and ensure long-term success while also being willing to reduce effort in less productive initiatives
- Enhance each university’s strengths while eliminating duplication
- Remain committed to supporting the flourishing of an R1 institution and enhancing its reputation for excellence in education and research
- Distinguish the “system” from the “system office,” both with respect to objectives and responsibilities
- Leverage Unified Accreditation as a tool for achieving systemwide benefits, and adhere to the UA guiding principles
- Respect the UMS culture and support our people in all we do

Stakeholder Education “Information Resources”:

In addition to communications about the strategic planning process itself, there are various points along way in that process where we anticipate sharing data with various stakeholders to promote a common understanding of UMS’ demographic, financial and competitive situation. Huron is preparing a summary version of our internal analysis to serve as a information resources. Once vetted by the Strategic Planning Working Group, the President’s Council and the Ad Hoc Board Strategic Planning Committee, these resources will be shared with stakeholders to ground conversations about the future in a fact-based fashion.
Strategic Planning: Communications Plan

Goals of the Communications Plan

- Ensure project awareness among system stakeholders

Strategic Planning Website Design Template

Below are some thoughts on the primary navigation/architecture of the strategic planning website. We may decide to solicit ideas from the University community and have outlined a space for idea submissions as well as a submission form template. Included throughout are examples and references from other institutions.

Site navigation/architecture

- Home/landing page which includes a welcome message (text or video) from Chancellor
- About – BOT Strategic Planning work group membership; timeline and overview of the process
- Resources – Resource documents for public consumption (e.g., link to the previous strategic plan)
- Ideas – Place for community to submit ideas (see idea submission form below), perhaps use of a word cloud feature
- News / Announcements – Communications and updates from Strategic Planning work group
- Optional: Working groups site (link to a secure SharePoint site that will house the materials of the various sub-committees)
- Implementation Plans (This will also be needed in subsequent phases of work to transition from visioning to execution)

Here are few examples of sites that have thoughtful design and architecture:

- Cal Poly Pomona – planning process site (see Development and Resources pages)
  - Landing page for the detailed strategic plan

Communication Strategy

Overall Philosophy: Effective strategy communication is an ongoing process that should be embedded in formal and informal interactions and should continue beyond the end of the strategic planning process.

Frequency and Cadence
Regular email communications sent by the Chancellor and followed by communications from each President. Communications will direct stakeholders to the Strategic Planning website for additional information.

Key Messages
Key Messages will be created for both the planning process and implementation of the strategic plan. These key messages are intended to be talking points embedded in formal and informal interactions and spearheaded by leaders.

Information Resources
Set of analyses shared with stakeholders to ground conversations about the future in a fact-based fashion.
Key Messages for Strategic Planning Process for Discussion

The following messages should be used when discussing the strategic plan in recurring meetings and other key moments where diverse members of the community are convened.

- Strive towards becoming a truly innovative public system
- Be student-centric in opportunity identification, prioritization, and implementation
- Base decisions on facts and the realities of the higher education market
- Be bold and willing to make tough decisions in order to invest in new initiatives and ensure long-term success while also being willing to reduce effort in less productive initiatives
- Enhance each university’s strengths while eliminating duplication
- Remain committed to supporting the flourishing of an R1 institution and enhancing its reputation for excellence in education and research
- Distinguish the “system” from the “system office,” both with respect to objectives and responsibilities
- Leverage Unified Accreditation as a tool for achieving systemwide benefits, and adhere to the UA guiding principles
- Respect the UMS culture and support our people in all we do
Topic 2:
Review of Information Resources approach
Information Resources: Guidelines for Use

The UMS Fact Book is designed as a tool to establish a baseline of commonly held knowledge about UMS to support the strategic planning process. It will act as a reference document to facilitate discussion and planning activities.

Create a common understanding of UMS’ demographic, financial and competitive situation

Engender meaningful collaboration grounded in a market context

Align us on a shared, sustainable vision for UMS
Information Resources- Current and Future Contents

Demographic and Enrollment
- US, Northeast and Maine Current and Future Demographic Trends

- UMS Aggregate Enrollment broken down by in-state / out-of-state
- UMS Enrollment by university over time

Student Success and Academics
- US, Northeast and Maine Completion Rates over time
- Academic Portfolio across the System

Economic Development
- Maine Occupations for Bachelor's Degree

Financials and Personnel

Future Contents
- Financials, net assets over time
- Financials, aggregate revenue and expenses over time
- Tuition trends over time
- State funding over time
- Research across the system
- Revenue and Expenses Detail by university
- Enrollment and retention by demographic group

Discussion Question: How should we prioritize these analyses? In what meetings or forums should these data be shared?
Anticipated Demographic Trends

Higher education institutions will be challenged by demographic and population trends over the next 10-15 years. The number of traditional students graduating from high school in the United States is expected to peak in 2025 and eventually fall below 2015 levels by 2035 which directly impacts the pool of traditional aged students to recruit and enroll.

Actual and Projected High School Graduates, 2015-2035

Implications for UMS: Following a peak in 2025, the number of high school graduates in Maine is projected to decline starting in 2025, falling below 2015 levels. The pandemic will also have an effect on enrollment levels in 2038 and beyond. UMS should be prepared to adapt by right-sizing and flexing to align to the rise and falls in demographic trends.

Maine High School Graduates: Future Pathways

In 2020, 12,422 students graduated from a public high school in Maine. 21% of these students enrolled at a UMS university.

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enrolled-Out-of-state</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

With Maine high school graduates projected to decline between 2025-2035, enrollment growth may or may not be a realistic strategic priority. Growth will require:

- Activating students who currently do not enroll (39% of students in 2020)
- Capturing market share from out-of-state competitors (18% of market)
- Capturing market share from 2-year institutions (14% of market) or Maine privates (8% of market)

Implications for UMS: As we set the strategic plan for UMS' future, all stakeholders will be challenged to think creatively as to how the system can flex over the next decade to meet changing supply and demand. The strategic plan will seek to design a sustainable model to support the educational and workforce needs of the state.

UMS Enrollment Trends: In-state and Out-of-state

In the last five years, UMS experienced a decline in total Fall Headcount. UMS was able to grow its market share of out-of-state students, however, that growth did not compensate for the loss of in-state students enrolling.

Implications for UMS: UMS supplemented its enrollment population with out-of-state residents as the population of high school graduates in Maine declined. To best serve Maine, UMS may consider how to balance these populations.

UMS Enrollment by University

In the last decade, all but one UMS university saw a decline in fall enrollment headcount. From Fall 2011-Fall 2020 UMS experienced a near 10% decline in fall enrollment.

Implications for UMS: UMS continues to experience a decline in fall enrollment like many institutions in the northeast. The strategic plan will seek to emphasize system-wide enrollment stabilization/growth strategies that reflect current demographic realities.

Student Success: UMS Outcomes vs. Peers

When compared to the national average for public four-year universities, the UMS System has an opportunity to increase student completion across all age groups.

State Level Completion Rate Trends by Age, Entering Cohort Year 2011-15

Implications for UMS: Across all age groups, the national six-year average completion rate was 69%, for Northeast peers it was 61.3% and for Maine it was 59.2%. There is opportunity for UMS to improve completion rates across all age groups, both for student and financial benefit.

Academic Portfolio: Bachelor Degree Programs

Bachelor degree programs in academic areas like Education, Physical and Social Sciences, Humanities and Business are prevalent across UMS. The balance of liberal arts and technical degree offerings position UMS to adapt to future market demands.

Implications for UMS: UMS has a broad portfolio of academic offerings to serve its residents. UMS will need to explore how to leverage their academic offerings to prepare its students for future workforce demands.

Occupations in Maine: Bachelor’s Degrees

Overall, employment is projected to grow 3% from 2022-2026 for occupations requiring a Bachelor’s degree and less than five years of experience in Maine. Management Analysts (depicted in light blue) make up one of the largest and fastest growing occupations.

*Note: Occupations requiring a Bachelor’s degree and < 5 years experience.

Implications for UMS: Occupations forecasted to grow in the state requiring bachelor’s degree will require a mix of skills. UMS has the opportunity to leverage its academic portfolio to prepare students for successful entry into the workforce.

UMS Faculty and Staff

While enrollment has significantly declined across the system over the past decade, faculty and staff levels have remained largely the same.

Facility & Staff Totals by Institution 2010-2021

Implications for UMS: Over the past 10 years, UMS faculty has decreased 8% across the system while staff has increased 1.5%. The increase in staff may reflect an increase in student needs. As the System evolves, faculty and staff resources will need to fluctuate with total enrollment.

Topic 3:
Review analyses of each University’s strategic plan
DIVERSITY OF US HIGHER EDUCATION SYSTEMS

Public Higher Education Systems are intentionally diverse and differentiated. Each system requires different assets and scale to meet the needs of its State.

For example:

- University of Alabama System
  - 3 research universities
  - 70,000 students
  - State population: 4.9M

- University of Wisconsin System
  - 13 four-year campuses + 13 two-year campuses
  - 182,000 students
  - State population: 5.8M

- SUNY System
  - 64 campuses (2 flagship)
  - 425,000 students + 2.2M adult learners
  - State population: 19.5M

Note: State populations are as of 2019 Census Bureau

CURRENT INSTITUTIONAL STRATEGIC PRIORITY COMPARISONS

During today’s meeting, we will discuss four priority areas that have been emphasized in previous discussions.

Enrollment Growth
The demographic landscape demands a paradigm shift.

Rural Populations
Embracing local communities and addressing the unique educational needs of a rural population.

“Systemness”
UMS has an opportunity to leverage the uniqueness of each university while strengthening the overall system.

Economic Development
As an economic engine, UMS must be nimble and adaptable.

The following slides reflect Huron’s initial analysis of university’s strategic priority areas.
